PROPHECY

There have been no limits to man's accomplishments. He has split the atom; he has discovered the wonder drugs; he has produced machines which, with astounding speed, can travel miles into the stratosphere. Is it not conceivable that man could advance his mental facilities so as to enable himself to look into the future? With self hypnosis as the basic facility, my somewhat feeble mind as a factor, and by the application of the secret given me by that master of meditation, Snuffy Smif, I suddenly find myself able to peer into the dim, dark future.

The year is now 1975. As I enter the gigantic industrial metropolis of Shelby, made the center of all universal trade by L. B. Izzi's discovery of that prosperity-essential material—Musicaphadre Eraudus, or Broad River Mud, I am much surprised at finding the business section virtually the same as it was back in '53. Upon asking the town bums, Charles Horn and Dave Byers. I am told that it was because of the crusades of Ann Kennedy, Barbara Allen, Ann Sherer, Ann Greer, and their Ax-Angling Avengers, who fought and won the battle to keep uptown Shelby as a memorial shrine for posterity.

As I look about at the vast array of figures scattered over the city, I recognize most of them, for they have changed very little. Strutting around among the populus, flexing his muscles for all to see, is "Gorgeous" Fish King, now Heavyweight Champion of the world. Sitting on a bench in front of the corner drug store are All-Americans Johnny Long and Jim Horn, who now coach the Shelby Athletic Supporters, who have for many years led the National Professional League. Led by "Mauler" McSwain, "Chuck" Cockrell, and "Whiz" White, sons of the family prosperous Mallory, Andy, and Dean, who were stars in '53, the "Jocks" have been holy terrors on the gridiron. The Shelby Farmers are now coached by "Frenchie" Francis and Bill Kirkendall, old-time New York Yankee Stars.

Sitting on another bench are Patricia Carpenter, Bobbie Guthrie, Marjorie Wilson, Jean Grealish, and Jo Ann Roberts. These masters of artistry, after three years' work, have just completed several one-mile-square portraits of Sarah Wray Rabon and Jack Gold. These extravaganzas, strategically placed, are designed exclusively to discourage the sending of flying saucers by the Martians.

Strutting down the street, smoking large black cigars and dressed in the most expensive suits that the fashion center of the universe, Pluto, can offer, are the prominent poolroom operators, Bill Mauney, Milton Bridges, "Squirrel" Hawkins, Gordon Shull, and Buddy Miller. They are currently being sued by the World Government for tax evasion. They can't escape justice because Tommy Roebuck, that ruthless, man-hunting head of the F.B.I., and his undercover men, Joe Hamrick, R. B. Costner, and George Magness, are keeping weathered eyes on them.

As I look across the square, I see Andre Sipe and Richard Wortman's ultramodern cafe, "The Sudden Death." Just as I enter, the wrestling matches are getting to a frenzied start on the large SSFV (See-Smell-Feel-avision) set. Featured tonight are the World's Women Heavyweight Champions, Dru Weiland and Barbara Webb, who will take on the number one contenders, June Sarratt and Phyllis Henderson.

I am quite astounded with the number of celebrities present today. Looking around, I see two Nobel Prize winners—Jim Magness, honored for his best seller, To The Woods, Bill Padgett, renowned for his discovery of several ancient documents (Miss Crow's birth certificate, etc.)—and two of the World's outstanding women athletes, Jo Ann Byers and Gay Runyans. Whooping it up also are a group of famous hunters just in from a day at Jupiter. Among them are Gene Gamble, Bob Poston, Virginia Higgins, Lettie Jo Cummings, Gail Falls, Joy Blanton, and Jewel Crawford. Gene and Bob are universally known as big game hunters and the others are renowned Men hunters.

Huddled over in the corner discussing strategy are the Joint Commanders of the Space Force, Thomas Ramsey and Beppie and Caroline de Vries. Several movie stars—Shirley Roberson, Beth Beam, and Dot Carpenter, all beauties of our class—are furnishing the floor show. They are supported by Lib Moore and Shirley Kitchen, the original, old-time Red-Hot Mamas, and also by a chorus line of those bodacious beauties of Broadway—the Rocket's, composed of Shirley McIntyre, Lorene Davis, Annie Barber, Ruth Guthrie, Joyce Fisher, Shirley Randall, Martha Wright, and Helen Spangler.

PROPHECY

Glancing back to the SSFV, I see that it is now time for the men's wrestling. There before me are some of the largest, most ferocious, Gargantuan hunks of humanity imaginable. They are: Harold Eskridge, Howard Abernathy, Donald Hughes, Summie Lee Hendrick, Kenneth Ledbetter, Jim Hardin, and Richard Bivins. I also recognize the referee as Gayle Wylie, who is said to be the tallest midget in the world.

Hearing a deafening noise, I rush out on the street just in time to see Roger Patterson, Bobby Hambright, Roger McSwain, and Gene Grigg go roaring by in their jet hot rods.

While out on the street, I see Mayor "Snow" Hendrick, Animal Confiscator (Dog Catcher), John Hunter, and virtuoso of voice, Jerry Hill and Vicki Plaster. They are all standing in front of Henry Fogle's Used Jet Agency. Along with them are Bill Self, now manager of the A & P Store; Dick Shull, Edwin Turner, and "Slim" Lane—the latter three having been so good at cutting (classes and such) work in Bill's meat department.

As I stroll down the street, I pass the Baldy Dome Beauty Shoppe. Here the beauticians Dorothy Bell, Burnie Borders, and Carolyn Bailey Crisp are busily at work changing Martha Wilson Queen's, Patsy Shepherd's, and Grace Yelton's hair coloring to the current fad of pastel green.

Next I pass the store owned by Phate McSwain, the man who made the 12 dollar landing gear possible. Glancing in the window, I see "Boss" Charles Toms and his henchmen, Tommy Willis, Bob Towery, and Jim Mauney, collecting the weekly protection money.

From the radio of their parked jetmobile erupts the unmistakable sounds of The Grand Ole Oprey. Immediately I recognized the melodious voices of Carolyn Kidd, Margie Killian, Lunette Lewis, and Joyce Grigg singing "The Great Speckled Bird." They are accompanied by the yodeling "Cackle Sisters," Billie Ann Roberts and Martha Singleton.

Deciding to visit the old Alma Mater, I board one of the quaint old Shelby Transit Buses. My money is taken by Frances Kelly and to my horrification I find that Carol Mabry is the driver. Sitting in front of me are the town gossips Barbara Lovelace, Pat Ledbetter, and Kay Lee talking about the scandalous party recently given by the Society Leaders, Carolyn Dedmon and Barbara Hopper.

Stopping to put a few gallons of oil into the picturesque antiquity in which we travel, I find we are in front of the Shake It Off Charm School. There Christine Davis and Doris Capps are teaching Jo Ann McSwain and Ruth Williams the art of driving men to insanity.

Downstairs is the blood center, where Doctors Julia Abernethy, Elinor Moorhead, and Barbara Francis are getting blood from Jimmy Tucker and Richard Beam. This is no easy process. Every few minutes it is necessary to blow the "head" off it so it will go into the bottle.

Finally reaching the school, I am warmly welcomed by the principal, Doris Poole. Jo Ann Bridges, Doris Ramsey, Joan Kilpatrick, Edris Blanton, Irene Beam, and Dorothy Hamilton, now with the aid of the completely visual educational system of teaching, are vainly striving to teach our kids and Charles Howell, who is still taking biology.

But alas, my mind is weakening under the terrific strain and with great reluctance I return to the present. In my short visit I saw that we, the class of '53, though loudly proclaimed by our elders as being of weak mind and of irresponsible nature, will in the future make a better world. And as I return, a feeling of contentment floods my being as I think of the promising future that awaits the class of '53.

Hi Sel,

It sure has been fun knowing you and going to school with you. Remember the paper route you got for me in the sixth grade. It really has been fun playing ball with you for the past 5 or 6 years. Remember playing with the K.B.'s and going camping & fishing in Blake and the other top. Those were the days boy. You really did play some mighty good football this past year. Keep it up and I am sure that you will really make a football player someday. All the luck in the world to you in football and in everything and your whole future.

A friend in Christ always,
Bob Harrold.

Selinger,

It really has been wonderful knowing you these last few years. I will never forget the fun we had at the park. That crazy Hilda and gran. Did you really believe that gran was the champion of Cherryville Ping Pong? Why, she did good to hit the ball after it had already hit the floor. She didn't even know how to keep score - It still was fun though letting her think she was good.

I will never forget you as a friend and I hope you will do the same for me.

Truly you are a wonderful person to know. Stay as friendly as you are and you will have the world bowing down to you.

I wasn't worth a damn otherwise, but I never did give up until the whistle sounded. That's how I got to play as much as I did.

you do all the time. Don't let that old blocking sled get
